In part 1 of our series on backup power in Europe, we named Italy as one of the most attractive European countries for BESS investments. How much Bess capacity does Italy have in ? As of March , Italy has got 1GW of grid-scale BESS capacity online, placing the country in third place in Europe (shared with Ireland) in terms of installed capacity, behind Germany (1.6GW) and the UK (5.6GW). Another 1.75GW is under construction, projects totaling 230MW have obtained permits, and 1.2GW of new BESS capacity has been announced. How much energy storage capacity does Italy have? As of November Italy had 5.1 GW / 11.7 GWh of energy storage capacity. This is almost exclusively small-scale residential system, with utility-scale storage systems providing just 864 MW. To help achieve the target for utility-scale storage build-out, the Italian government has implemented the MACSE subsidy scheme as supporting legislation. Is Bess a good investment in northern Italy? While Northern Italy currently has the largest installed BESS capacity in the country, a build-out of RES in the South is increasing energy price volatility, creating a more compelling investment case for BESS in this region. What projects will be supported in the battery industry? Initiatives aimed at improving the adaptability and flexibility of production processes in battery manufacturing will also be supported. In addition, projects demonstrating cost-effective, safe, and sustainable production of battery metals, precursors and active electrode materials will be eligible. Why is the battery industry struggling in Europe? Despite the momentum the battery sector is gaining in Europe, there remains a certain dependency on third countries for raw materials, as well as challenges such as regulatory fragmentation, high energy and labour costs, a shortage of skilled battery manufacturing workers, and considerable business uncertainty.
